UK lifts testing requirements for vaccinated travellers

Canada-US truck blockades hit auto ind

BY JILL LAWLESS / London

Vaccinated travellers can enter Britain without taking any coronavirus tests starting Friday, after the government scrapped one of the final restrictions imposed over the past two years in response to Covid. British residents and visitors who have had at least two doses of an approved coronavirus vaccine now only need to fill out a passenger locator form before travelling to the UK. Unvaccinated people still have to take tests both before and after arriving but no longer need to self-isolate until they get a negative result.

Transport Secretary Grant Shapps said the UK "now has one of the most free-flowing borders in the world - sending a clear message that we are open for business." Airlines and other travel firms hailed the change as a lifeline after two years of severely constricted travel.

Andrew Flintham, managing director of travel group Tui UK, said there was "a huge pent-up demand for international travel," and people were rushing to book getaways for the February school break and April's Easter holiday. Gatwick, London's second-busiest airport, said that it plans next month to reopen the second of its two terminals, shuttered since June 2020.

British Airways chief executive Sean Doyle urged other countries to follow Britain's "pragmatic approach." "But some scientists worry the government is moving too fast." Prime Minister Boris Johnson's Conservative government lifted most domestic rules last month.

protesting Canadian vaccine mandates are forcing car companies to close production lines. There is growing alarm that the protests in Canada are threatening the country's economy and trade with the US, its biggest trading partner. The blockade at the Ambassador Bridge, which links Detroit and Windsor, Ontario, is especially disruptive. Toyota said that the blockades posed a risk to auto industry supply chains, and that it was tracking potential disruptions to agricultural exports from Michigan into Canada. The Biden administration urged Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's government Thursday to use its federal powers to end the truck blockade.

Leaders at France summit mull ways to protect oceans

PARIS: World leaders met on France's Atlantic coast Friday to discuss protecting the planet's oceans from threats such as overfishing and plastic pollution, and finding fairer ways to manage the seas. The One Ocean Summit comes as European authorities are investigating a mass fish dump in the Bay of Biscay that environmental activists call an example of abuses by huge trawlers that disrupt undersea ecosystems.
